Breaking Down Barriers: New Frontiers in Diversity Management

Centre For Ethical Leadership
This event provides a unique opportunity to discover the latest research on reporting requirements, targets & quotas, along with industry insights and tools for immediate application. We will address why diversity and inclusion initiatives fail and what leaders can do to create a more inclusive workplace for all employees. Evidence-based research is fundamental for setting metrics and goals and developing strategy for sustainable, diverse and inclusive cultures.

About the Centre –

Founded in 2010, the Centre is focused on undertaking rigorous research and advising organisations and leaders on the creation of inclusive and dynamic workplaces.

Our business model is based on providing independent advice across industries and sectors, and using our cutting edge research and extensive academic and professional experience to create value for organisations. We are a leader in the development of high quality diagnostic tools - such as Cognicity and Diversity Scan –which are grounded in our research and academic expertise and are used to collect data for the creation of tailored and high-impact programs for organisations.

The Centre for Ethical Leadership would like to thank Corrs Chambers Westgarth for their ongoing support.
